

The Evening World's and Babies' Welfare Association's Better Babies' Contests

Here Are Five Champion New York City Babies, Winners Yesterday in One of This Paper's Big Contests

Bank Books Recording the Substantial Sums Deposited to the Credit of the Little Folk Hand-ed to the Winners, While the Throng of Spectators Applauded Vigorously.

Unabated Interest Manifested in the Baby Contests That Are Being Conducted at Other Points, as Shown by the Number of Entrants.

Mothers and fathers, brothers and sisters, aunts and uncles and cousins, and neighbors filled to the brim the playground at Public School No. 124, Brooklyn, to see the award of The Evening World's money prizes in the great Better Babies' Contest that ended yesterday afternoon. Splendid double rounds of applause greeted the little contestants as they stepped forward with their mothers to receive the bank-books which recorded the substantial sums placed to their credit, and which will be gathering interest all the years until the babies are twenty-one.

Erlyna Dams, thirty-nine months, No. 62 Reeves place, Brooklyn; 98 per cent.

NONE ABSOLUTELY FLAWLESS DISCOVERED.

There were no one hundred per cent. absolutely flawless babies discovered in the searching final test to which the thirty prize-winners, Little Joseph Clark, came off best with a score of 99 per cent. But there were so many almost-perfect babies that they just had to be honorably mentioned.

Nobody knew who won which, in the prize-winning ranks, until Dr. Le Grand Kerr, the eminent child specialist who superintended the judging, made his announcement.

In judging which of the babies submitted to us were best, he said, "we physicians were bound entirely by certain rules laid down for us. We had absolutely no personal choice in the matter. After examining the 500 babies entered in the contest, we found thirty-one so close that a re-examination was required to know which were the five most perfect. I had the assistance of six other physicians, in this final test, and the prizes were awarded according to the impartial decision of the seven of us."

The first name Dr. Kerr called was that of Elevina Nelson, ten months old. Elevina was brought forward in her mother's arms to the center of the cleared space in the recreation ground, about which the attentive audience was grouped. Elevina was plump and pleasing in a new white dress with a warm white knitted coat over it. Like all the other prize babies, she received two rounds of applause, one when she appeared in her mother's arms and one when her mother put The Evening

CONTESTS OF THE CHELSEA NEIGHBORHOOD ASSOCIATION—Registration for entrants closed July 29. Entrants will be judged in October, dates to be announced later.

For each of these three contests The Evening World offers $50 in money prizes.

ped forward to get the prize. Robert Bartro, who is pretty nearly three, was so manly-looking that Dr. Kerr placed the bank-book in Robert's own hands. And Helen Clark, four and a half, grinned delightedly and tossed her pretty bank book as she received her book.

AWARD OF EXTRA PRIZES FOR ATTENDANCE.

Then Wesley C. Cox, who is in charge of the recreation center and who managed the Better Babies Contest, announced that Congressman W. M. Calder would give out the prizes in another competition. The congressman, Senator William H. Hoffman and County Clerk Charles S. Devoy each offered a five-dollar gold piece, at the beginning of the summer, to the baby brought to the playground for inspection the greatest number of days, and proving to be in a clean and healthy condition. It was decided to split the money halves, and $150 was awarded to two children. The Hoffman prize was divided between Ethel McGann, three years, No. 133 Eighteenth street, and Margaret McFarland, three years, No. 146 Prospect avenue.

The Devoy prize went to Katherine McCourt, two years, No. 549 Fourth avenue, and George Kastner, six months, No. 41 Fifteenth street.

The Calder prize went to John Timmins, two years, No. 265 Twelfth street, and Joseph P. O'Neil, five months, No. 254 Sixth street.

In these contests the following received honorable mention: Theodore Kastner, William Culbert, Elizabeth Skelly, Alfred Cammann, Walter Cammann, Pauline Muller, Henry Koerner, Margaret Bunce and Mildred Grubman.

LAUDS THE EVENING WORLD CONTEST.

"The Evening World Better Babies' Contests are a splendid thing," said Congressman Calder. "Too much good cannot be said for them. And I think the idea of making the prize bank accounts is particularly praiseworthy. Everything that I have in the world started from a five-dollar bank account which I was given when I was ten years old, and which I was forbidden to touch till I was twenty-one."

The mothers of the prize-winning babies agreed almost identically in their descriptions as to how they cared for their children. Their prescription included pure food and a carefully regulated diet, a daily bath, plenty of fresh air, sleeping with the windows open, early bedtime and many naps, and a scientific hygiene system which allowed no deviations.

And the best thing about the competition just ended is the undoubted fact that every mother who entered it knows more than ever before about the care of her child, and is truly determined to train it so carefully during the coming months that it will surely be a hundred per cent. perfect baby next summer.

WHAT HAPPENED AT OTHER CONTESTS.

At the Greenwich House, at No. 26 Jones street, they received an even dozen entries yesterday. There were six more on Thursday than were reported. Greenwich village has been showing strong in this contest. It is one of the greatest sections in the city for babies, and there has not been a baby child yet present in the contest here continues to Monday, Sept. 1, inclusive.

At the Warren Goddard House, No. 34 East Thirty-fourth street, eighteen babies were entered yesterday, bringing the number up to 109. There are plenty more of the little ones in the district. Some of the mothers could enter two or three, but the age limit being two years, lessens the chances. The contest is on for all of next week.

At the Little Italy House, No. 146 Union street, Brooklyn, unabated interest is shown in the contest. Eight more babies were recorded yesterday, and there is still a week and a day before the lists are closed.

Judging of contestants is still going on at The Little Mothers' Aid, but the committee hopes to announce prize distribution day on Monday.

Take Note, Fishermen.
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Establishing what is said to be a world record with rod and reel, W. C. Bochen of New York brought to gaff off Catalina Island today a 25-pound swordfish. The fish was twelve feet in length with a sword four feet long and seven inches wide at the base.

Child Killed by Brewery Truck.
OAKA Maholowich, five years old, daughter of George Maholowich, a painter of No. 419 East Sixty-eighth street, was struck and killed by a brewery truck of the Central Brewing Company at Sixty-eighth street and East River today at noon. The child ran into the street after a rubber ball when the big truck struck her. The driver, Benjamin A. Sherman of No. 41 East Seventy-second street, picked up the child and hurried with her to Reception Hospital. She was dead when he arrived.

THE DOLL GIRL AND OTHER PLAYS COMING TO TOWN

Hippodrome Will Also Offer Its Big New Production "America."

RICHARD CARLE and Hattie Williams come to the Globe Theatre on Monday night with Charles Frohman's production of "The Doll Girl," a musical comedy by Leo Fall and Harry B. Smith. The book is founded on a French comedy by Callovet and de Fiers. Chaperoned by her doll a village girl goes to Paris with a strolling actor who promises to make a great actress of her. In the supporting company will be Robert Ewert, Will West, Charles McNaughton, Ralph Nairn, Dorothy Webb and Cheridah Simpson.

"Kiss Me Quick," a farce by Philip Bartholomew, will open William A. Brady's Forty-eighth Street Theatre on Tuesday evening. The piece deals with the adventures of members of a moving picture company who are posing for a photo play on the grounds of a country estate near New York. Presiding over the estate is the proprietor of literary ambitions who is drawn into the proceedings. This character will be played by Helen Lowell. Other parts will be taken by Arthur Aylesworth, Robert Kelly, Richard Taber, Louise Drew, Laura Laird, Emily Callaway and Mary Hastings.

The Lyceum Theatre opens on Thursday evening with Philip Littell's English version of Ferenc Molnar's comedy, "Where Ignorance Is Bliss," to be produced by Harrison Gray Fiske. The Hungarian author has written a play dealing with the stage, the principal characters of which are an actor, an actress, a critic and a "stage mamma." Married life in the "profession" is the theme of the play. In the cast will be William Courtleigh, Rita Golliver, Frederic de Belleville, Florina Arnold, Marion Pullar, Kevitt Mantion and May Grellville.

Another opening on Thursday evening will be "Adela," a musical comedy from the German, at the Longacre Theatre. The English adaptation is by Adolph Philip and Edward A. Paulson. The story has to do with a French girl who is in love with the son of her father's business rival and finds it necessary to scheme to overcome parental objection. The cast includes Georgia Caine, Natalie Alt, Hal Forde, Cranford Kent, William Danforth, Dallas Welford and Harry C. Bradford.

The Hippodrome is to reveal its new production, "America," on next Saturday night. The wonders of the United States will be shown in eighteen scenes devised by Arthur Voight. The plot is chiefly concerned with a spy who attempts to gain possession of certain plans of the Panama fortifications. The ballet feature will this year take the form of a carnival of American sports, and the big tank will be the scene of a swimming contest. A large number of athletic events in character with the sports and ceremonies. A number of other novelties will be offered, and no end of thrills are promised.

Cohan & Harris will open their new Bronx Opera House a week from tonight with "Fine Feathers," by Eugene Walter, as the attraction.

The Prospect Theatre begins its new season to-night with "Polly of the Circus."

Law Field's "Hanky Panky" production comes to the Grand Opera House to-night for a week's stay.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be played for another week at the Manhattan Opera House.

"The College Girls" come to the Columbia Theatre.

Billy Watson brings his burlesquers to the Murray Hill Theatre.

At Miner's People's Theatre will be "The Golden Crock" company. Miner's Theatre in the Bronx will have "The Columbia Burlesquers."

"The Star Burlesquers" will be at the Olympic Theatre.

The Grand Theatre, at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Third avenue, opens Monday with "The Dandy Girls."

VAUDEVILLE ATTRACTIONS.

Evelyn Thaw and Jack Clifford will continue to appear at Hammerstein's, where others will be Dainty Marie, Charles Ahern and his Cycling Comedians, Arnet Brothers, musical acrobatic eccentrics, and Bert Fitzgibbon.

At Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre will be Raoul Rombio and Contessa Milford in operatic selections. Kathleen Clifford in male impersonations, Melville and Higgins, Will Oakland and others. In first place at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre will be Clavette, Humalist, Hope Booth in "The Blonde Lady" will head the bill at the Fifty-eighth Street Theatre. For its chief attraction the Twenty-third Street Theatre will have the Eight Diving Girls.

PARKS AND BEACHES.

Among others at the New Brighton Theatre will be Jack Norworth in songs and dances. Mile. Dazie in "Pantalon," a pantomime by J. M. Harris; Eddie Leonard and Mabel Russell; Francis McGinn in "The Cop," and Sue Smith.

The Brighton Beach Music Hall will offer a two-act musical comedy called "Busy Day," with George Sidney at the head of a company of forty.

The bill at Henderson's Music Hall will include Hot French and Alice Kie in "The Dance of Fortune," Edgar Atchison in "Billy's Tombstone," Elsie Snowden, Charles Cartmell and Laura Harris, and Joe Whitehead.

There will be a complete change of bill at the Rustle Theatre in Palisades Amusement Park.

RAID RESORT OF STUDENTS.

(Social to The Evening World.)

ROSTON, Aug. 22.—Fennecroft Inn, located at Middleton in the heart of the fashionable north shore district, was raided by State police and Watch and Ward detectives yesterday and ten roulette wheels and other gambling paraphernalia were seized. Harry Mansfield, the proprietor, and Manager Johnson were arrested. Later they were held in $500 bail.

The raid on Fennecroft Inn was prompted by protests from many educational institutions in eastern Massachusetts, said Secretary J. Frank Chase of the Watch and Ward Society today.

"Many students and girls, according to the protests, remained at the Inn till early morning hours and have been corrupted by drinking and improper dancing."
